California Indian Tribal Relations

The California Environmental Protection Agency (Cal/EPA) and its Boards, Departments and Office (BDOs) are committed to improving our communication and working relationships with the California Indian Tribes.

To achieve this goal and to help guide Cal/EPA and its BDOs, we have adopted the Cal/EPA Policy for Working with California Indian Tribes. This document can be found online at: www.calepa.ca.gov/Tribal/Documents/CIT01Policy.pdf.

This policy will serve to guide Cal/EPA and all its BDOs in their daily operations to work with California Indian Tribes in a knowledgeable, sensitive, and respectful manner.

Ricardo Martinez, Deputy Secretary for Environmental Justice, Tribal and Border Affairs is guiding this effort with the assistance of his staff.

This document was developed as a resource for Tribes to better understand the structure of Cal/EPA and to provide contact information of key individuals within our Agency.

Linda S. Adams
Secretary for Environmental Protection
Cal/EPA MISSION
To restore, protect and enhance the environment, to ensure public health, environmental quality and economic vitality.
Introduction

The Office of the Secretary

Oversees and coordinates the activities of the following five Boards, Departments and Office (BDOs): the Air Resources Board; the State Water Resources Control Board; the Department of Pesticide Regulation; the Department of Toxic Substances Control; and the Office of Environmental Health Hazard Assessment.

Cal/EPA and its BDOs understand that protecting California’s environment is a major undertaking that involves not only communicating and collaborating with federal and state agencies, local governments, and non-governmental organizations but also communicating and collaborating with California Indian Tribes.

California’s environmental regulatory system is a complex framework, with training, compliance assistance, inspection, permitting and enforcement activities carried out by a number of federal, state and local government agencies. In order to fulfill Cal/EPA’s mission, it is essential to understand the unique history of the California Indian Tribes. By learning about tribal history, environmental issues, and cultural places, we can begin to put into context how the laws, programs and processes that Cal/EPA and its BDO’s administer, relate to California Indian Tribes.

California has the second largest number of federally-recognized tribes and, according to the 2000 U.S. Census, the largest Native American population in the United States. In California, there are 110 tribes that are recognized by the federal government. There are also indigenous communities which, although they existed prior to the formation of the United States, are not currently recognized as sovereigns by the federal government. At this time, there are 89 non-federally recognized California Indian Tribes of which 72 are engaged in seeking federal recognition. All California Indian Tribes, whether officially recognized by the federal government or not, may have environmental, economic, and public health concerns that are different from the concerns of other Tribes or from the general public. These differences may exist due to subsistence lifestyles, unique cultural beliefs and traditions, and/or specific connections to areas of California that are their ancestral homelands.

Cal/EPA recognizes that actions outside Indian Country may affect the environment, public health or economic well being of California Indian Tribes and its residents, just as the actions within Indian Country may affect the environment, public health or the economy outside those borders.

Cal/EPA also recognizes that federally-recognized tribes may enact tribal civil regulations that affect natural resources, public health and environmental protection, and that they may assume treatment in the same manner as a state under certain federal environmental laws such as the Clean Water Act and the Clean Air Act.

In addition to working with other federal, state, local governments, and non-governmental organizations, Cal/EPA has an interest in working in collaboration with California Indian Tribes to pursue its mission.
Guiding Principles

To improve communication and collaboration, Cal/EPA and its BDOs should, to the extent feasible and legally allowable, be guided by the following principles and best practices. Nothing in this policy shall be construed to prevent Cal/EPA or its BDOs from taking timely action to fulfill their legal obligations to protect the public health and safety, or the environment; or to carry our federally-mandated duties under delegated federal programs. Cal/EPA and its BDOs shall:

- Acknowledge and respect tribal sovereignty, as defined in this policy.
- Understand that federally-recognized tribes have a unique relationship with the federal government.
- Understand the importance of communication and collaboration with California Indian Tribes.
- Communicate with California Indian Tribes in a manner that is respectful and considerate.
- Seek to identify and include federally-recognized California Indian Tribes in decision-making processes that affect tribal lands.
- Seek to identify and include federally-recognized and non-federally recognized California Indian Tribes in decision-making processes that affect cultural resources.
- Recognize and respect the cultural resources of California Indian Tribes, whether or not on tribal lands.
- Where appropriate, consider the potential impact of our activities or programs on tribal lands and cultural resources.
- Encourage collaborative efforts between the California Indian Tribes and federal, state, and local government entities to resolve issues of mutual concern.
- Promote efforts of California Indian Tribes to develop and expand environmental programs, and to achieve compliance with environmental laws.

Introduction: Guiding Principles
Introduction: Action Plan

Cal/EPA and its BDOs will work together to implement the following actions to achieve its guiding principles, to the extent legal and practicable:

- Establish a Tribal Stakeholder Group (with rotating membership) to discuss environmental issues and projects involving California Indian Tribes. The Tribal Stakeholder Group will include representatives from federally-recognized and non-federally recognized California Indian Tribes. The Tribal Stakeholder Group will meet with Secretary of Cal/EPA and the heads of each BDO, of their designees, at least once each calendar year.

- Designate a tribal liaison within Cal/EPA and within each BDO as a central point of contact for California Indian Tribes.

- Develop a communication protocol that will be followed by Cal/EPA and its BDOs, and that will promote appropriate collaboration with California Indian Tribes.

- Establish a process to disseminate public documents, notices and information to California Indian Tribes, and make these documents readily accessible to tribes that may not have electronic capabilities.

- Establish a process to conduct meetings, outreach and workshops at times and in locations that facilitate tribal participation.

- Provide training to appropriate executive staff, managers, supervisors, and employees on how to implement this policy.

- Establish a mechanism to obtain relevant and available information, studies and data from California Indian Tribes when conducting research or environmental studies that relate to, or could impact tribal lands or cultural resources.

- Assess eligibility of California Indian Tribes for Cal/EPA financial assistance programs such as grants, loans, and scholarships.

- Upon request by a California Indian Tribe, provides training and technical assistance, and share data, where appropriate.

- Develop Memorandums of Understanding (MOUs), Memorandums of Agreement (MOAs), or other cooperative agreements with California Indian Tribes on specific projects or subject matters as appropriate.

The State Board's mission is to preserve, enhance and restore the quality of California's water resources, and ensure their proper allocation and efficient use for the benefit of present and future generations.

The State Water Resources Control Board (State Water Board) was created by the Legislature in 1967. The joint authority of water allocation and water quality protection enables the State Water Board to provide comprehensive protection for California's waters.

The task of protecting and enforcing the many uses of water, including the needs of industry, agriculture, municipal districts, and the environment is an ongoing challenge for the State and Regional Water Quality Control Boards.

Our mission is to protect human health and the environment by regulating pesticide sales and use, and by fostering reduced-risk pest management.

The Department of Pesticide Regulation (DPR) has the primary responsibility for regulating all aspects of pesticide sales and use to protect the public health and the environment. DPR's mission is to evaluate and mitigate impacts of pesticide use, maintain the safety of the pesticide workplace, ensure product effectiveness, and encourage the development and use of reduced risk pest control practices while recognizing the need for pest management in a healthy economy.

The Mission of the Department of Toxic Substances Control is to provide the highest level of safety, and to protect public health and the environment from toxic harm.

The Department of Toxic Substances Control (DTSC) regulates hazardous waste, cleans-up existing contamination, and looks for ways to reduce the hazardous waste produced in California. Approximately 1,000 scientists, engineers, and specialized support staff make sure that companies and individuals handle, transport, store, treat, dispose of, and clean-up hazardous wastes appropriately. Through these measures, DTSC contributes to greater safety for all Californians, and less hazardous waste reaches the environment.

OEHHA’s mission is to protect and enhance public health and the environment by scientific evaluation of risks posed by hazardous substances.

Goals of the Department:
- Improve the quality of the public’s health and the environment.
- Advance the science for the evaluation of risks posed to the public health and environment, and provide risk assessment leadership for the State of California.
- Provide quality, useful, and equitable service to the public.
- Seek continuous improvement in the effective and efficient use of our internal resources to accomplish our mission.
